SENIOR ALERT
COVID-19
SCAMS SPREADING

Seniors are at higher risk with COVID-19.
Don't increase your risk for insurance fraud.

FALSE INSURANCE CANCELATION

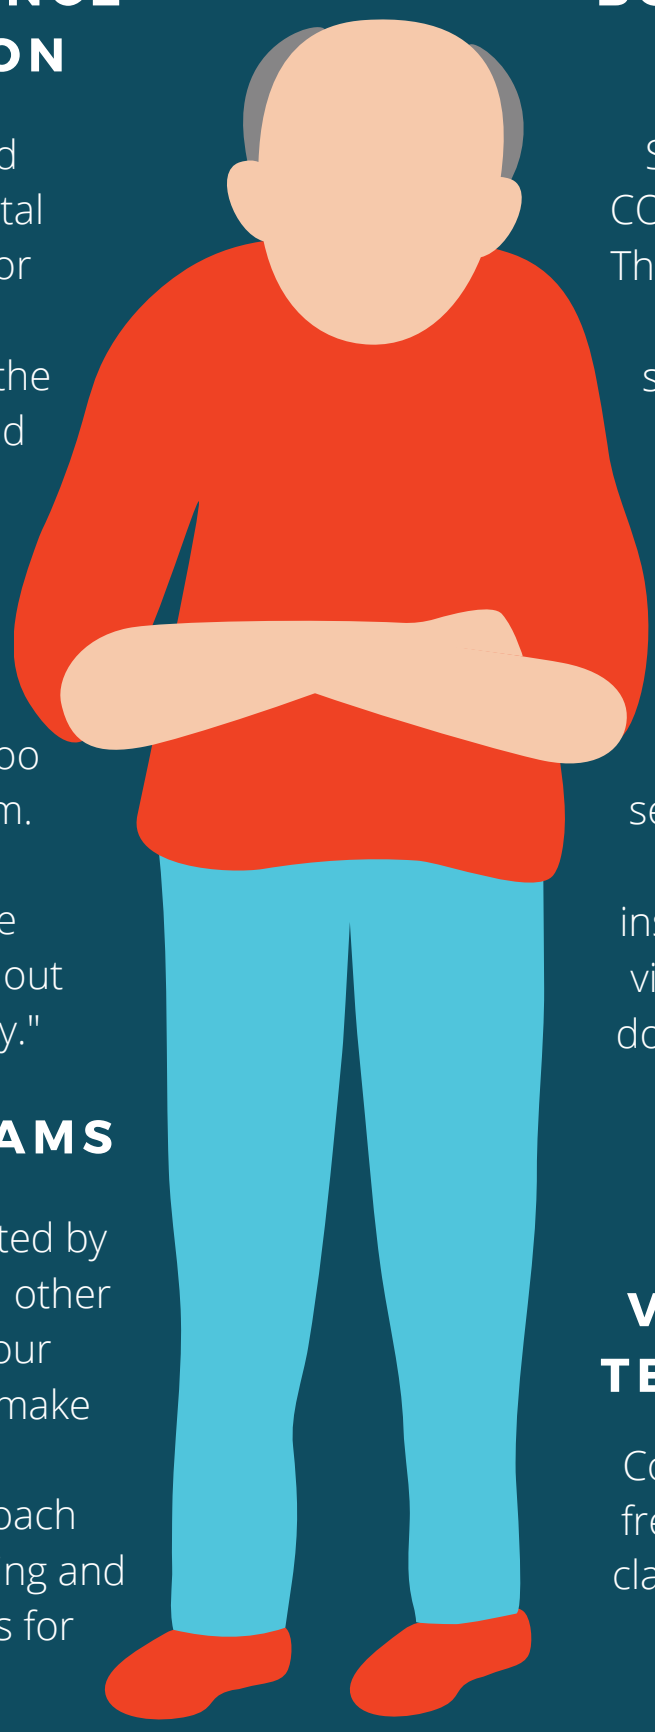
Scammers say a loved one is sick in the hospital and needs coverage for ventilator urgently. Says you can pay over the phone to reinstate and coverage.

ACT NOW DEALS

If it sounds too good too true, it's probably scam. Reject sales pitches, wanting you to decide quickly and pay or miss out on a "great opportunity."

MEDICARE SCAMS

Seniors are being targeted by COVID-19 robocalls and other scams that ask for your Medicare numbers to make bogus claims. Scammers even approach residents at senior housing and assisted-living facilities for Medicare ruses.



BOGUS CORONA INSURANCE

Scammers are pitching COVID-19 health coverage. They promise full coverage at low prices, but are scamming to steal your money & identity.

FALSE DNA TESTING

Testing scams prey on seniors, claiming tests are needed and paid by insurance. Fraudsters seek victims through cold calls, door knocking, and emails. Just say no.

COVID-19 VACCINES OR TESTS OR KITS.

Con artists are pitching free vaccines and tests, claiming they're insured.

PROTECT YOURSELF

- Verify requests for your Medicare or Medicaid info before responding.
- Do not respond to robocalls, unknown texts, emails or door-to-door solicitors.
- "Free" COVID-19 tests, vaccines, supplies or treatments are shams. Ignore them.
- Never click on links from unknown sources. Clicking may download malware.
- Contact a trusted doctor or other health provider to check your medical status, order a COVID-19 test — and learn the facts.
